North Carolina setting records for early votingEarly Records Of North CarolinaAbout North Carolina and Tennessee, Early Land Records, 1753-1931. The area we now know as the state of Tennessee was at one time the western part of North Carolina. In 1784, North Carolina ceded those lands back to the United States, setting aside a military reserve to be given as land grants to North Carolina Revolutionary War veterans and other individuals who had been involved in surveying the area. North Carolina and Tennessee, Early Land Records, 1753-1931 Two favorite early North Carolina multiple volume record sets edited by William I. Saunders and Walter Clark form the basic resource on early records. William L. Saunders (ed.), The Colonial Records of North Carolina, (Raleigh: State of North Carolina, 10 volumes, 1886-1890). The volumes cover the time period 1662-1776.

Walter Clark (ed.), The State Records of North Carolina (Winston and Goldsboro: State of North Carolina, 1970). This collection contains Church records from various denominations in North Carolina, 1700-1970. The record content and time period varies by denomination and locality. Federal census records for North Carolina began in 1790. The 1790 enumeration is missing for Caswell, Granville, and Orange counties; the 1810 is missing the counties of Craven, Greene, New Hanover, and Wake, (though the information has been substituted in most publications with tax lists); and the 1820 is complete except for Currituck, Franklin, Martin, Montgomery, Randolph and Wake counties.

North Carolina Genealogy & North Carolina Family History ... Others migrated further south to the Piedmont area of North Carolina during the mid 18th century. North Carolina was a wild frontier at the time and yet other families traveled west to forbidden lands. These pioneers traveled across the Yadkin River and endured the rough terrain of the Blue Ridge Mountains. This blog will give details of the early settlers in present day Watauga County, NC.
